

3 convicted on racket charges

By GARY SCHNEIDER
Press-Record Staff Writer
Madison Alderman Ronald Grzywacz, suspended Madison police sergeant Richard Krieshok and former Madison policeman Edward Goclan were convicted by a federal jury yesterday in Alton on charges of racketeering and perjury.

Sentencing is set for Aug. 25. The three remain free and indicated they plan requests for a new trial, and appeals.

After two hours and 15 minutes of deliberations, including time to eat box lunches in the jury room, the panel of seven women and five men returned the verdict of guilty on all counts against the three.

They were charged with accepting bribes and favors from tavern owners in Madison to "tolerate" late closing hours and prostitution, and with lying to a federal grand jury in Springfield investigating the allegations late last year.

The prosecution also presented witnesses who testified that Grzywacz, while a Madison officer between 1970 and 1974, also accepted payoffs from taverns and tow truck operators in Madison County, outside of the city limits, including the Club J near Fairmont City and Myrene's Steakhouse near Alton.

The owners of both those taverns admitted on the witness stand that they allowed prostitutes to operate from their taverns while making payoffs to Grzywacz, who said he took the payoff money to Madison County Sheriff John Maeras.

Grzywacz contended that he had been working for Maeras, conducting an undercover investigation of payoffs to deputies, and then taking all the money collected to the sheriff for evidence.

Maeras would not support Grzywacz' claims when asked by the FBI and IRS and he refused to testify during the trial, saying he would invoke his Fifth Amendment rights against possible self-incrimination, if called by the prosecution or the defense.

Maeras' chief of field operations, Capt. John Cooper, likewise announced he would use the Fifth Amendment, if called to testify during the seven-day trial. But both were allowed to make their announcements outside of the courtroom and the jury was never told why they did not appear.

Mayor cites concern over federal grant

Mayor Mike Sasyk of Madison, one of those questioned last week during a federal trial in Alton, said Wednesday he regrets the impact of news articles about the trial, and fears it may adversely affect city-federal commercial redevelopment projects.

Acknowledging that as liquor commissioner he had revoked the liquor license of a tavern and then sought to block sale of the establishment, Mayor Sasyk said he delayed the sale because one of the potential buyers was believed to be a vice procurer.

The mayor pointed out that the trial testimony of a tavern proprietor followed the mayor's appearance on the witness stand, and that he thus was not given an opportunity to voice a rebuttal of her statements.

Some tavern owners have testified that they made weekly cash payments to certain police at various times to obtain leniency on closing hours and to avoid harassment. Three former officers have been the trial defendants.

Mayor Sasyk has denied there was any conflict between his role as liquor commissioner —

OK bonds to use former steel plant

An ordinance authorizing the sale of $2.5 million in industrial revenue bonds to help finance installation of a new metal processing facility in part of the former General Steel Industries (Commonwealth) plant, was enacted by the Granite City Council Wednesday night.

The bonds will be sold for the Michigan Metal Processing Corp. of Detroit, Mich., which will take over part of the former Commonwealth plant under a lease agreement with Granite City Steel, which owns the property.

In recent months the City Council has arranged to provide access to the plant area from the northern area of the plant, agreeing to accept an extension of 16th Street for maintenance.

Under the plan, the city will own the plant and equipment acquired with the bond proceeds, and Michigan Metal Processing will lease them from the city.

The bond ordinance provides that the bonds will be retired entirely with funds paid by Michigan Metal Processing, and that the city shall not be held liable for the bond and interest payments.

The bonds will be sold to the National Bank of Detroit under a bond sale agreement previously reached between the city and the bank.

Mayor Paul Schuler told council members that employment at the new plant is expected to start at 50 to 60 employees and eventually increase to 125 to 150 employees within one to two years.

Michigan Metal Processing conducts a pickling process and processing of rolled heavy gauge steel.

Community Development fund grants totaling $895,890 have been allocated to Quad City municipalities and townships in the first phase of a new three-year development program financed with federal money.

The new allotments were listed in an announcement Wednesday by Nelson Hagnauer, chairman of the Madison County Board, that $3,693,000 in Community Development block grant funds had been received by the county.

The county allotment is

$895,890 for mall, drainage and housing

divided among agencies throughout the county which budgeted new development programs for the second three-year development program.

Hagnauer noted that this is the fourth year of the program in Madison County, and the first year of the new three-year program.

During the past three years, Hagnauer said, townships, municipalities and the county have used the block grant funds for housing rehabilitation, loans and grants, water and sewer service installations, surface drainage, park development, road and bridge development and a variety of other projects.

The new three-year program for which budgets were prepared last winter calls for allocation of about $12 million over the three-year period. The county grant announced this week embraces funds for the first year.

The largest single allocation in the Quad-City area went to the city of Madison which will receive $200,000. Of that amount, $100,000 is earmarked to help finance construction of a new shopping center mall in Madison.

The other $100,000 of the new grant is specified for a housing rehabilitation program in which deteriorated housing will be improved.

Granite City will receive $147,000, of which $87,000 is allotted for surface and water drainage improvements and for purchase of a new fire truck.

'BOMBS BURSTING IN AIR'... The skies above Wilson Park are illuminated with the glare of fireworks during the finale of Tuesday night's display. It was the 19th annual display produced by the park district. Several thousand persons viewed the bursts of color for the nearly 40-minute display which also included many ground displays. People crowded around the launch area as well as the perimeter of the park and neighboring yards.

City not interested in Lakeside plans

By HARRY BARNES
Press-Record Staff Writer
The Granite City Council Wednesday night turned down a proposal that the city participate in a plan to acquire Lakeside Airport on Route 111 south of State Rd. 35 and develop it into a commercial airport facility.

The council — with 11 of the 14 aldermen present — voted unanimously in favor of a motion that a request by the Tri-Cities Area Chamber of Commerce that the city help develop the airport to serve this portion of the Illinois metropolitan area be denied.

The motion came from Alderman Paul R. Bowler of the Seventh Ward, chairman of the council's Planning and Zoning Committee which had been assigned as a special Airport Committee to study the proposal.

Bowler said the committee — which includes Aldermen Sam Whitmer and Roy Poulos — decided in a meeting Wednesday evening prior to the regular council session that the proposal should be turned down because of the large investment that would be involved at a time when the city already is committed to several major undertakings.

In presenting the motion, Bowler told the council, "There is a considerable amount of money involved. The chamber has said a feasibility study would cost $5,000. To acquire the land (Lakeside Airport) would take about $1 million, part of which might or might not be financed by the government."

"We (the city) would have to put up the money to buy the land, and then apply for a grant. "Even if we received an 80 percent grant, we still would have to provide about $200,000 of the land cost."

"There would be another $800,000 involved in constructing facilities to operate the airport. This is proposed at a time when we are committed to other major projects such as the downtown overpass."

"The committee suggests that the city deny the Chamber's request that we take part in the project and that it pursue other channels," Bowler concluded.

There was no discussion of the motion and it was approved on a voice vote.

The airport proposal was advanced by the Airport Committee of the Chamber of Commerce, headed by Dr. Donald Coleman, suggesting that the airport facility be developed on the basis of a feasibility study.

$40,000 lumber loss on train here

Damage estimated at $40,000 was caused by fire that started in a load of lumber on a flat car as it passed the Highway 162 crossing at 23rd Street Tuesday night.

Long Lake firemen were at the scene from 10:30 p.m. Tuesday until 3 a.m. Wednesday.

The 25 firemen answering the call had to unload and wet down at least half the carload of lumber.

Cause of the fire is unknown. The car with the lumber was number 73 of a 150-car train.

Traffic was tied up for some time, but the train was divided to allow one lane of traffic to proceed, alternating under police direction, until the fire was out.

Corbin leaving Madison school

Norman Richard Corbin has resigned as principal of Madison High School, according to Madison School Board President Sam Dymas.

Corbin submitted his resignation last week to the board of education to accept a sales position with the Old Heritage Advertising Company, St. Louis.

He will begin his duties on Monday.

Reasons given for leaving the high school position were that the advertising company offered more money and that he enjoys sales work.

There's an Answer!

by Norman Vincent Peale and Ruth Stafford Peale

Drug abuse is destructive

Q. I am a 16-year-old girl and I feel there is nothing to live for. I am into drugs really bad. I cannot face my problems alone. I have recently been thinking of suicide. I have tried to get help, but nothing seems to work. I am getting tired of life. Please send me a booklet that will help. A. You have made the mistake of thinking that drugs will give you life, whereas they destroy life. But suicide is a stupid solution. Your answer is to get out of drugs and get back into a normal, happy living pattern. We know that won't be easy. But neither is it impossible. Revise your life style and you will find happiness. We are sending you a booklet called "THE POWER TO CHANGE YOUR LIFE. Follow the program it outlines and you can indeed change your life. Anyone wishing a free copy of the booklet may write to us at Box 500, Pawling, N.Y. 12564.

encouragement, prayers, what do I need? A. Perhaps your real problem is that you have a moody husband. And that is a psychological sickness. You are lucky that he doesn't drink or gamble or run around with women, but only has a depressive, gloomy moodiness. Of course, that is bad enough. If there is something you would like to ask Dr. and Mrs. Peale to discuss in this column, write to them in care of Box 500, Pawling, N.Y. 12564. If you would like to talk directly with a Prayer Partner, call Prayer Line (212) 481-1050. Reduced long-distance rates are in effect nights and weekends.

REBELLIOUS TEENAGER Q. I am at my wit's end with my 15-year-old son. He spends every cent he makes on himself and his friends. I believe it is for pot.

He tells me I am obligated to support him until he is 18. He is rebellious and thinks he knows everything. He steals and is dishonest.

I hate to see my son turn into a street bum or pot head and wind up in jail. But I'm afraid that's where he is headed. I'm disgusted and bewildered and ready to give up on him. What can I do?

A. With this inconsiderate and mixed-up boy you are not going to get anywhere being at your "wit's end." Don't let this arrogant kid boss you around. Stand up to him. Don't fight or argue with him but calmly let him know the score. Discipline is the heritage of every child. If they don't get it at home, young people will have to get it the hard way somewhere else. All you are obligated to do for your son is to feed him, clothe him and see that he goes to school. Besides that, pray for him—but also be mighty firm with him.

SILENT PARTNER Q. Our problem is lack of communication. Sometimes if I don't ask my husband something we could go for days without even speaking. He volunteers no conversation whatsoever.

I guess I am doomed to a quiet life. If we fussed over money, sex, drinking, infidelity, I think I would know what to do. I do love the guy, but oh, how I wish he would speak up. Sometimes I don't know if I should count my blessings or if I want a "silent partner" the rest of my life. Hope, etc.

Richard Hatley, 28, of St. Louis and Mrs. Caroline Mason were both admitted to St. Elizabeth Hospital for observation. They were passengers in the Mason auto and both suffered cuts and abrasions to the forehead.

Bill Tindall, 46, of 64 University Drive, was admitted for observation to St. Elizabeth Hospital at 8:40 p.m. Tuesday following an auto accident with a car driven by Ronald R. Mason of Engineer Road, at 8 p.m. on East Chain of Rocks Road.

Tindall was issued a traffic citation for improper lane usage by Madison County Sheriff's deputies.

PRESCRIPTION DRUGS

3 convicted

There was some type of investigation is clear.

"Whether or not the sheriff got any money is not the point. That is for another day, another time," Turner stated.

He said sarcastically that Grzywacz was "a great police officer, out gathering evidence," who turns it over to the sheriff, with no receipts, thus breaking what is legally known as "the chain of evidence."

In any trial, he said, it is essential for everyone who handled evidence to sign receipts to show the evidence is intact.

Turner contended that any money turned over to Maeras would be "worthless evidence, if evidence," since Grzywacz could not testify in court that he was the same money he received from taverns or low truck operators, without receipts.

Carmen Durso, attorney for Goclan, likened the government prosecution to a cannon.

"They showed everything they could find down the barrel, aimed it at Grzywacz and hoped some of the shrapnel will hit the other two defendants," he told the jury in his closing arguments.

Lawrence Flemming, Krieschok's attorney, compared the government's evidence to attempting to fire a missile at a jet fighter, that had just released a fake or "drone" plane, which looks the same on radar.

The missile then chases the drone while the "bad" fighter gets away, he said. "I really wonder if this isn't what we've got here.

"The U.S. attorney's office, the IRS, the FBI, the grand jury and all of the resources of the U.S. government going out after the drones," he said before the jury.

In his closing arguments, London said, "Grzywacz is the man responsible for our being here." He said Grzywacz was responsible for "shaking this little playboy Mayor (Mike Sasyk of Madison) and Sheriff (John) Maeras had going for them."

He said that Grzywacz was not satisfied with resigning from the police department after the Big Jenny's Little Place raid, but then ran for alderman and was elected "in Mayor Sasyk's council." He contended Sasyk then began lining up opposition for Grzywacz.

"We have seen evidence of who controls every thing in this community — the liquor commissioner (Sasyk) who has a vending machine concession in it."

"Who is Sasyk's friend? Maeras. He (Sasyk) was his (Maeras') campaign manager," London stated.

He noted that a letter among the evidence, signed by Maeras, said Grzywacz was free to discuss with the IRS an undercover investigation he was conducting for Maeras.

"Not one witness denied Grzywacz was collecting money during an investigation for the sheriff. Maeras and Cooper had details."

"Their testimony is unavailable," he stated.

London said Lieutenant Gary Burns "figured prominently" in the presentation of the case, but was never called by the arguments, Fleming made an impassioned plea for the jury members to study their prejudices and consider the importance of their decisions on the lives of the defendants and their families.

Fleming said the name of the case, "United States versus Richard Krieschok" (actually all three) showed "overwhelming odds."

He said the government had many powers the defense did not have, including the grand jury, which has broad powers to subpoena and investigate personal matters; the prosecution's power to grant immunity to some witnesses; the power of the FBI, IRS and U.S. attorney's office, and "all of the resources of the U.S. government."

Fleming contended all of those resources, used in an investigation which "dragged on" for four years, looked into the sheriff's department and finally focused on "three ordinary policemen," indicting them.

"They stripped them of their privacy, hid you in their financial affairs, to gain evidence on the sheriff's department."

Fleming said he was concerned the jury would "see something wrong. You don't know what, but one way to stop it is to convict these three cops."

"That would be a gross miscarriage of justice. Liberty is fragile. The greatest saving feature is you, the jury."

"What you do today will have a profound impact on Richard Krieschok, his family and their way of life, the rest of his life."

Durso contended there obviously was a conspiracy proven by the trial, but he contended it was a conspiracy of witnesses "who testified on behalf of the government."

He contended the government produced "a steady stream of witnesses saying, 'Oh, yes, I recall this conduct, this conversation.' Several recalled things the night before the trial. A week before the trial."

He pointed out that many of the details witnesses recalled at the trial had not been told to the jury in 1974 or the grand jury in 1977.

Durso labeled the "suddenly recalled new facts" as "convenient recall," and alleged the testimony "is an afterthought."

An obvious attempt to fabricate evidence against Goclan, he said, was to lean over backwards to conjure up something against Goclan that never occurred.

Durso told the jurors that if they believe the witnesses against Goclan, "We all just fell down the same hole that Alice (in Wonderland) did. It's fantasy."

Turner countered, saying all witnesses for the prosecution are interviewed extensively prior to the trial and many recall details they had not remembered when questioned by the FBI and grand jury.

Wednesday's closing arguments and jury deliberations followed a day of rest for the jury and trial participants on July 4.

On Monday, the jury was not called in until 11:15 a.m. and there was less than one hour of testimony, which concluded both the prosecution case and the defense.

The prosecution called only one witness Monday, former Madison Chief of Police Frank Dutko, whose testimony was interrupted when he became emotionally upset and on the verge of tears.

Dutko recalled that shortly after the Big Jenny's vice raid in 1974, he went to the home of Madison Police Sgt. William Papa and unexpectedly found Krieschok there.

Dutko testified he asked Krieschok what the allegations were about and he told the jury, "It was really hurt."

At that point, Dutko was unable to continue his testimony and held up a finger, requesting a moment to regain his composure.

After the recess, defense attorney Fleming defended to know why Weiland had accompanied Dutko outside of the courtroom and asked if any "improper prompting of the witness" had occurred during the recess.

Dutko said he and Krieschok had known each other all their lives and described them as "very close friends."

The former chief testified that when he saw Krieschok in Papa's home, he asked Krieschok, "Rich, what did you do?" Dutko testified Krieschok responded, "I don't know how I got mixed into this thing. What I got out was just peanuts."

Under cross-examination by Fleming, Dutko said he visited six or seven taverns suspected of having paid officers and told the owners, "If I found out any officers involved, I would go for their jobs and the tavern license."

He said he called the three officers who allegedly took kickbacks into his office and asked each to prepare his own report on what happened the night of the Big Jenny's raid.

Asked if he was satisfied with the three reports, Dutko stated, "No, sir." He said, however, that his investigation showed no evidence from the tavern owners to support any kind of criminal prosecution.

Fleming noted Dutko never told the FBI or grand jury about the meeting with Krieschok at Papa's home and did not mention it during a meeting with defense attorneys the night before his testimony.

Madison police Sgt. William Fanning was in the witness room Monday and observers said he may have been a potential witness regarding the conversation between Krieschok and Dutko. After Dutko accused the conversation, prosecutors dismissed Fanning from testifying.

The federal government then rested its case.

The brief, ten-minute defense was a surprise to many, as only one witness was called.

London called FBI Special Agent James Quick to the stand and asked him to identify a typed sheet of paper. After saying he identified the paper, but not discussing its contents, Quick was asked to produce a document.

He said he did not have the document with him, and a brief recess was called after London demanded to see the document.

The prosecution was able to find a copy in its files, and court resumed.

Quick then testified that the document, still unidentified, was given to him by Grzywacz, along with records from the G&G Car Wash the FBI had requested.

Quick then was excused while the nature of the document remained a secret to the jury.

During closing arguments, it was identified as a letter of authority Maeras allegedly gave Grzywacz to discuss his investigation with IRS agents.

After Quick's testimony, defense attorneys asked Ackerman for permission to approach the judge's bench.

Another of the trial's numerous bench discussions followed.

The attorneys returned to their tables and Judge Ackerman announced that the defense had rested its case. Court was then dismissed for the holiday.

Following closing arguments yesterday, Judge Ackerman read the federal grand jury indictment to the jurors.

The judge, in lengthy instructions to the jury, described a conspiracy and a pattern of racketeering activities while police officers — soliciting payments and favors from business establishments in return for permitting prostitution and late closing hours.

The second, third and fourth counts accuse Grzywacz, Krieschok and Goclan, in that order, of lying to the grand jury.

The judge, in lengthy instructions to the jury, described the legal aspects of each of the charges and stressed that the acts of each defendant must be considered separately from the acts of the others.

The judge also told the jury, that Sheriff Maeras, Cooper and Mrs. Jenny Huey were "not available by no fault of either the defense or the prosecution and you need not concern yourselves and may not draw any inference therefrom."

Ackerman released the jury for deliberations at 1:15 p.m. with instructions for the foreman to again read the lengthy legal instructions to the jury before the balloting.

Box lunches were brought in a short time after the deliberations began and the jury returned at 3:30 p.m. with its verdict.

After the jury conviction was announced, defense attorneys said they plan to ask Ackerman for a new trial. If that is denied, they plan to appeal the conviction, it was indicated.

If their appeals are un-

Man arrested outside tavern

Thomas R. Carper, 24, of St. Louis, was arrested and charged with battery at 1:30 a.m. Wednesday, in a complaint signed by Leo Nighobossian.

The arrest stemmed from a disturbance outside Sammy's Tavern, 921 Niedringhaus Ave., when Nighobossian allegedly was struck in the face by Carper.

Nighobossian assisted by Mike Andria, an employee of the tavern, were attempting to subdue Carper and hold him until police arrived, they reported.

A woman companion of the St. Louis man, who allegedly kicked Andria in the left temple, was not charged, it was learned.

successful, the three may face fines of up to $5,000 and up to 25 years in prison each.

Call special GC budget meeting

A special meeting of the Granite City Council to discuss a first budget draft was proposed during the regular council meeting Wednesday night after Finance Chairman Paul R. Bowler of the Seventh Ward said budget figures should be ready by the first of the week.

Customarily the council would hold no meeting next week under its regular schedule, but Alderman Sam Whitmer suggested the council call a special meeting Tuesday night, July 11, if the budget can be put together and typed by that time.

If the budget cannot be completed by then, Whitmer suggested, the council should meet in special session any night next week after the budget figures are compiled.

The city budget must be completed and passed not later than midnight July 31 to comply with state law.

"I don't believe we should pass the budget by until the next regular meeting (July 11) because of the time involved," Whitmer said.

In past years, budget revision has taken up as much as several months to agree on final appropriation figures.

Alderman Paul R. Bowler who remarked, "We are trying for a frugal budget this year," said that most of the budget computations have been completed and that it is probable typed copies can be prepared in time for a special meeting Tuesday night.

City Clerk Robert Stevens was instructed on a motion by Whitmer to issue the call for a special meeting at a time when the budget can be ready for discussion.

Bowler also called for an ordinance that will set up a system of business licensing of all businesses in the city, including various types of businesses housed under the same roof.

The alderman and finance chairman noted that there has been a considerable number of business operations that have not been required to pay a business license.

and Miss Ozbun received an American Steel Foundries grant.

News notes

Headings are set for Monday, July 10 from 9 a.m. to noon, from 1:30 to 5 p.m. and from 7 to 10 p.m. on the future of Amtrak rail passenger service. The public is being encouraged to attend the sessions in the air-conditioned Federal Building at 1520 Market St., St. Louis, a change from the non-cooled Soldiers Memorial auditorium previously announced.

State Rep. Joe E. Lucio, a Democrat who was nosed out in the March party primary and is running as an independent in the general election, said this week he will stay in the race. He has over 1,250 petition signatures and needs a total of 3,642 by July 31. Lucio said he hasn't been offered the post of SIUE athletic director, as had been rumored.

Ollie Raymond, musician and television weatherman, will be the guest speaker as the Tri-City Red Cross Chapter installs new officers at a dinner dance at 6 p.m. Friday at Sunset Hills Country Club. A film will depict the chapter's role in saving the life of a local serviceman during a trans-Atlantic flight.

The Internal Revenue Service has been asked to help state officials crackdown on 285,000 fathers failing to make child support payments in Illinois.

Priest, 3 others, arrested today

The Reverend Edwin P. Arensen was arrested at 10:30 a.m. today in the parking lot of Hope Clinic for Women, 1602 Twenty-first St., after being asked by the clinic's director, Laura Moody, to leave the premises.

Also arrested were three women protesters who accompanied the priest onto the parking lot in an attempt to talk to prospective patients of the clinic.

All four protesters have been charged with criminal trespass to property.

Before the arrests the priest said that he was going onto the parking lot to give visitors to the clinic the chance to learn about alternatives to abortion.

He said that if anyone tried to make him leave the lot that he would refuse. None of the employees of the clinic made any efforts to remove the priest from the premises.

Rev. Arensen was arrested on Jan. 19 this year outside the clinic and was charged with disorderly conduct. He asked for a jury trial and was found guilty on Feb. 16.

Joan Henneberry, another employee of the clinic, summoned police today after the priest was repeatedly asked to leave the clinic's property.

Assessor study by farm group

A study aimed at finding ways to better utilize local tax assessors is being launched by the Illinois Farm Bureau. Leonard Gardner, IFB secretary, said this week the survey also will deal with qualifications and compensation standards. Survey questionnaires will be sent to all township assessors and supervisors of assessment in Illinois as well as to a representative sample of voting members of the Farm Bureau.

The survey will seek to determine the size, scope and cost of the job of assessing real and personal property. IFB representatives met with representatives of the Illinois Professional Assessment Council and the Township Officials of Illinois June 28 to get their suggestions for the study. The council is comprised of representatives of the township assessor and supervisor of assessment organizations.

Appeal decision on mass transit funds

St. Louis County Supervisor Gene McNary, chairman of East-West Gateway Coordinating Council's board of directors, has received authorization from the board to meet with U.S. Department of Transportation (DOT) Secretary Brock Adams to appeal the latest decision of the Urban Mass Transportation Administration (UMTA). In May, the Gateway board decided not to spend additional money for further study of the transit system adopted earlier this year, unless the UMTA administrator would give assurance that federal money would be available here to develop the system that would result from the further study.

UMTA Administrator Richard Page in his reply said, "The assurance (you) seek cannot be considered." His reply further indicated that the St. Louis Area plan would have to compete with proposals from other cities. McNary, in requesting authorization to appeal the decision to DOT Secretary Adams, said he felt this area is not receiving a fair share of tax dollars appropriated for mass transit. McNary also asked for assistance from the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) in making the appeal. His request was directed to Dr. Kathleen Camin, administrator of EPA's Kansas City office, who attended the Gateway board meeting to discuss air pollution problems. Since half of pollution problems in the St. Louis area are related to car usage, a higher level of transit service would aid in reducing the overall air pollution in the area, it was noted. Elected officials on the Gateway board believe that federal air pollution regulations will result in higher unemployment and can have serious effects on businesses throughout the eight-county area. The federal law requires that, before any new industry can locate in the area, starting in 1979, other industries must cut back on their pollution. The Gateway board fears that some existing industries may close if they are required to install further expensive pollution control equipment. In other actions, the board has just adopted the transit portion of the Transportation Improvement Program (TIP) for the region. The highway portion was adopted a month ago. The program spells out specific projects planned for the coming five years. Capital costs for improvements to the region's transit system over the next five years total $218.7 million. Of that amount, $36.8 million worth of improvements are programmed for the 1978-79 year beginning July 1. In Madison County, major improvements for the coming year include a new route between East St. Louis and St. Edwardsville. Other projects include new information centers and renovation of bus operations. In another transportation-related matter, the Gateway board endorsed an application from the McDonnell Douglas Corporation for $93,730 in Federal Aid Urban Systems funds needed to institute a van-pool demonstration program at the St. Louis County installation. McDonnell-Douglas will provide $10,415 in order to meet the total price tag of $104,145. The Gateway board also requested that the project be repaid within four years. The project entails purchase of eight 12-passenger vans. In other actions, the board endorsed applications from the Duck Creek Sewer District in St. Charles County, Mo. and the Brookside Foundation for waste treatment planning funds which are provided through the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency. The board's review of these applications marks the first time that the policies set forth in the St. Louis Areawide Waste Management (208) Plan were used to review applications for federal waste treatment planning funds. The 208 Plan was adopted by the board in April. Gateway's 208 Plan covers only the Missouri portion of the region. The Southwestern Illinois Metropolitan and Regional Planning Commission prepared the plan for Madison, Monroe and St. Clair counties.

Layoff at Nestle to end Sunday

Employees of Nestle, Inc., will return to their jobs at midnight Sunday to end a plant-wide layoff that began July 1. Approximately 185 employees were affected by the layoff. Roger Higgins, plant manager, said the layoff resulted last week primarily because of the July 4 holiday interruption in operations, noting that the plant has a continuing production process and that it is impractical to shut down the plant for one day. He said a three-week shutdown is planned from Aug. 7 through Aug. 21 to provide vacations within a single period. The Nestle plant processes coffee, chocolate and tea products.

UNDERCOATING — RALPH'S TEXACO

22nd & MADISON AVE.

1 Thess. 5:22 "... Abstain from all appearance of evil."

It is amazing how our sense of values change. We are living today, surrounded by some of the lowest moral conditions that have ever existed in the world. In tracing the rise and decline of many past cultures, we find that gross immorality lay at the base of every one that fell.

America is no different. Unless there is a great change in attitudes, she will fall. Our patriotic birthday celebrations and quotes from our forefathers leave a very hollow ring in our ears.

We are in need of "doers" of the word, not "hearers." Christ declared, "I am the way, the truth, and the life: no man cometh unto the Father but by me."

A simple, but effective story toward our Nation's salvation is "Abstain from all appearance of evil."

Let it start with you. Today.

Academy of Achievement honors Jon Kastelic

CLORIS LEACHMAN talks with Jon Kastelic in the lounge of the Executive Riverfront Inn in Owensboro, Ky., during the Academy of Achievement program.

Schuman

leadership appointment, Schuman said, "When I was asked to help in the United Way campaign, I was reminded of an article by John D. Rockefeller. "Mr. Rockefeller related that all of us take pride in our country, but we often fail to realize that its success has been based on three sectors: (1) business, (2) government and (3) the private, non-profit sector, such as the United Way. "The first two are readily recognized; however, the latter is not—even though millions of American benefit and participate in it. "In our community, the United Way aids the Boy Scouts, the Girl Scouts, American Red Cross, the Arthritis Foundation, Co-ordinated Youth, Salvation Army, YMCA, Tri-Cities Association for Retarded, Illinois Children's Home, Alcoholism Rehabilitation Community Home, Catholic Charities, Family Counseling Center, Protestant Welfare, Madison County Urban League, Visiting Nurse Association and AFL-CIO Community Services. "Consider the value of these agencies to our community, and think of our own personal or family associations with these organizations. I'm sure we have all been touched by their services. "No amount of money from the government could buy the caring relationship that exists in these organizations. "Today, the need is great. A healthy United Way provides alternative ways to solve problems, and helps maintain institutions that should not be taken over by the government. "It provides opportunities for initiative and a sense of caring that are indispensable for our way of life and democracy. "In reality, all we have need other people. We all have a deep need to feel that others care and will help if we ever require it. In a way, it is our insurance for security. "I know it is difficult to give up a little in our competitive society, but I believe Ralph Waldo Emerson gave us the best answer to a life that is often confused by conflicts, contradictions and inequities. "He said that the radical tragedy of life seems to be the distinction of people who have more and those who have less. How can people who have less not feel the pain? How can they not feel indignation and anger toward the people who have more?

"Look at those who have less talent and faculty and one feels sad and does not know what to do. It seems a great injustice. But see the facts, and these mountainous inequities vanish. "Love reduces them as the sun melts the iceberg in the sea. When one realizes that the heart and soul of all men are one, this bitterness of 'his' and 'mine' ceases. His is mine and mine is his. "I am my brother and my brother is I. If I feel over-shadowed and outdone by great neighbors, I can yet love, and be that love makes his own the grandeur he loves. Thereby, I make the discovery that my brother is my guardian and I, his."

Schuman resides in Granite City with his wife, Gloria Ann, two daughters, Leah and Laney, and one son, Patrick. He is a graduate of Southern Illinois University, receiving a bachelor of science degree with a major in history and a master of science degree in secondary education with a major in history. He also has a specialist degree in administration. Schuman currently serves as an alderman of Ward Two on the City Council.

"We are pleased to have Pat Schuman on our team and look forward to his commitment and involvement in our United Way efforts for many years to come," Donovan concluded.

Boys, 10 and 12, arrested in purse snatching

Two boys, 10 and 12 years old, snatched purses belonging to two women bowlers at Brunswick Tri-Mor Bowl at 6:50 p.m. Monday.

Marie Riggs, 2805 Harding Blvd., and her sister, Beulah Riggs, were bowling at the lanes and noticed two boys looking at their purses.

One of the women asked the boys to go away, but shortly afterward they noticed the purses were gone.

Two men went outside to look for the boys and one man found them at the rear of K-Mart going through the purses. As he drove up to them, the boys threw down the purses and ran south into a field.

Another boy identified one of the pair and police officers eventually identified the second boy and went to both homes.

One boy had hidden $31 at his home and the other had $21.55 in his possession. He told police he spent the remainder at the park carnival and gave some of the money to others.

Marie Riggs had $25 taken from her purse and Beulah Riggs lost $76 from her pocketbook.

The boys were referred to the juvenile officer.

Eden ending for South Pacific?

In "The South Pacific: End of Eden?" the fourth special in the James Michener's World series of visual essays, the Pulitzer Prize-winning writer returns to the vast, sun-drenched site he knows so well to take a "last glimpse at a diverse and unique corner of the planet before it plunges heading and irrevocably into the mainstream of the modern world." The hour-long documentary airs at 1:30 p.m. Friday, July 7, and at 7 p.m. Tuesday, July 11, on Channel 9.

Author of several books on the area, including "Tales of the South Pacific" which won him the Pulitzer, Michener has spanned the classic Broadway musical, "South Pacific" — "Return to Paradise" and "Hawaii." Michener searches out the special qualities of the far-flung, spectacularly beautiful islands and the variety of cultures they sustain.

Extending halfway around the world, the regions of Oceania — Melanesia (Fiji, the Solomons and New Guinea); Micronesia (the Gilberts, Marshalls and Carolines); and Polynesia (Hawaii, Tahiti, Easter Island and New Zealand) — cover a third of the earth's surface. Subject to 20 completely different forms of government, they support eight million people who speak in 1,200 languages.

From New Guinea's warring tribes to Tahiti's bustling dock workers, Michener's personal impressions of the most romanticized and stereotyped portion of the globe reveal civilization's steady advance.

What does the future hold for the people of the South Pacific? At this point, with them torn between political independence, economic difficulties and a growing sense of inferiority and faced with technological transformation, no one can predict.

Says Michener: "The Pacific has withstood explorers, colonists, whalers, missionaries, traders, adventurers, drifters, dreamers, great wars and thermonuclear bombs. Somehow, in some form, it will survive."

Vandals damage plant equipment

Considerable damage to lighting fixtures and equipment was accomplished by vandals at the Krenstra Concrete Co., 2801 Circle Drive, it was reported at 3:25 p.m. Monday by Bill Volivar.

Entry into the building was gained by prying hasps from a door, Volivar said. Damaged were an air compressor, heat exchange gauge, light fixtures and receptacles. The vandals also set fire to cardboard crates containing fire bricks, the operator told police.

Late adolescents—new things to learn

By CATHERINE R. MAUCK
Madison County Extension
Adviser, Home Economics
As they approach adulthood, young people must learn about a new stage in life, make long-term decisions and make new adjustments.
Parents have a role in these changes, but usually from a background position.
The tendency is to push, to try making decisions for them, or to step out into the unknown and manage problems on their own is not easy.

The best way for parents to help is to be available for talking things over, to suggest alternatives, and to offer both emotional support and information as needed.
Each emerging adult must be allowed to resolve each task and each problem for himself or herself.
The late adolescent of 18 to 21 or 22 years old is faced with five main tasks:
—Selecting and preparing for an initial kind of job or career.

—Desiring and achieving behavior acceptable to society.
—Developing mature moral, ethical, social, economic and political beliefs.
—Building sound personality traits, social and communication skills, and healthy attitudes in preparation for adulthood and possible marriage and family life.
—Acquiring a set of values along with growing self-understanding.

The goal is the gradual emergence of the late adolescent into an adult independent on the family.
This means choosing and earning new responsibilities, new abilities, new values and new freedoms.
This young adult will be a "new" person—somewhat like the child he was and the family he came from, but also different, with an individual potential and worth for the world.

Man robbed of $134

Wilbur Wallace, 2120 Nevada
Ave., was walking in the alley between Dewey and Illinois avenues at 3:40 p.m. Monday, when a man came out of a vacant garage and grabbed him from behind.
Another man then came from the empty garage, located at the rear of a dwelling in the 2000
block of Dewey Avenue, removed Wallace's glasses and searched him, taking $134 from his trouser's pocket.
The men then pushed him and ran down the alley toward 21st
Street, he told police.
Both of the assailants stayed behind him most of the time, Wallace said, and he was unable to give a clear description of police since his glasses had been removed.

One of his attackers appeared to be short, stocky built and about 20 to 24 years old, he said.

Refuses to give up fireworks; man arrested

In a 36 hour period from 3 p.m. Monday until 3 a.m. Wednesday, Granite City police officers responded to 35 complaints of fireworks being discharged, but only in one instance did the call result in an arrest.

William R. Carney, 25, of 2429 E. 25th St., was arrested on a state charge of unlawful discharge of fireworks at 1 a.m. Wednesday at his home.

Fifty-seven packs of "thunder bombs" allegedly were confiscated from Carney by an officer who went to the Carney home in response to a complaint from neighbors and reported seeing Carney light and throw a pack of fireworks into the yard. The officer said he explained discharging fireworks was illegal and he would have to confiscate the remaining fireworks, with the matter ending there.

Carney allegedly refused to give up the fireworks and became abusive with the policeman, who called for a backup officer.

Carney reportedly continued to use abusive language to the officer and made a threatening remark enroute to the station, the report stated.

Thompson promises balanced budget; will veto rebate plan

Governor James R. Thompson said Wednesday he will do whatever is necessary to bring his 1979-80 fiscal year budget back into balance after "excess" spending measures totaling about $1,300,000,000 were added by the General Assembly.

He also said he will veto a tax rebate proposal "because there's no money for it."

"The legislature," the governor said, "goaded by a state comptroller who would spend this state either into bankruptcy or a tax increase, has run wild with proposed spending far beyond what we can afford."

Controller Michael Bakalis is the Democratic governor nominee running against Republican Thompson Nov. 7.

"It would require increases in the income tax, the sales tax and a major increase in the gasoline tax to support the spending plans of this General Assembly," Thompson said.

"I am going to trim those spending plans down to what we can afford, without any tax increase."

In the general funds categories, the governor said, "about $276 million in excess spending, unsupported by the money to pay for it, is headed for my desk."

"The bulk of excess spending proposals in the general funds area involves the so-called tax relief provided at a $90 million cost to the state by expanding 'circuit breaker' provisions to families which earn up to $25,000 a year; a tax-indexing plan that would cost about $30 million the first year; and a plan to transfer $30 million from general funds for a one-shot pothole-filling scheme."

Rebuild Route 159 crossings

The Illinois Department of Transportation advises that Illinois Route 159 will be closed to through traffic at the Norfolk and Western and the Chicago and Northwestern railroad track for a period of approximately two weeks beginning July 10.

Automobile traffic will be detoured via city streets. Truck traffic will be detoured over Routes 182 and 197.

Signing and traffic control devices will be provided to guide motorists through the detours. Motorists will be requested to be patient and cautious when traveling.

A spokesman said the closure is necessary due to reconstruction of the railroad grade crossings.

The crossings are being reconstructed with rubber crossing material by railroad workers in accordance with agreements with the Illinois Department of Transportation in order to provide smoother and safer crossings.

LARGEST DISPLAY OF 7-UP is shown at Corral Liquors, 3314 Nameoki Road. The display is in conjunction with the 7-UP-Datsun "Unscramble" contest currently being held. Jan Gitcho, Corral manager, said that entry blanks for the contest are available at his store. He said that with each case of canned 7-UP purchased, one is given away free.

Roy Katz, 166 Briarwood Lane, picked up two hitchhikers about 2:35 a.m. today while driving west on Pontoon Road, near Highway 111, and lost his 1976 Mustang II to the pair a few minutes later.

Katz said one of the youths appeared to recognize him, but when he stopped the car and got out for a moment at Pontoon and Sara, the two men drove away in his auto.

Faces 2 charges

Kenneth Noe, 44, of 4257 Highway 111, was charged with battery and theft of services following an incident at 10 p.m. Tuesday in the 2200 block of Grand Avenue.

Noe allegedly refused to pay Edward Baugh, 1999a Grand Ave., a driver for Dave's Taxi, and reportedly struck Baugh in the face with his fist.

Force was needed to place Noe in a squad car after his arrest, officers said.

FR. FRANK KREBS

Youth celebration set for July 16

Fr. Elmar Mauer, pilgrimage director at the National Shrine of Our Lady of the Snows, is inviting the "young and young at heart" to share in Youth Celebration on Sunday, July 16, at 6 p.m. at the Shrine's outdoor amphitheater, 3500 W. Illinois Rt. 15.

The evening includes music by the Gateway Encounter Christ Community and the Friends of J.C. Featured speaker will be Fr. Frank Krebs, whose topic will be "Jesus Is Lord."

Fr. Krebs, editor of the local Catholic renewal newsletter, "The Spirit and the Bride," is currently associate pastor at St. Peter and Paul parish in the historic Soudard district of St. Louis. He received a master of divinity from Kenrick Seminary in 1972 and taught at Rosati-Kain High School for several years. He was also a priest disc-jockey on KSLQ.

A 7:45 liturgy, celebrated by Bishop William Cosgrove, bishop of Belleville, will conclude the evening.

GC youth, 18, faces 6 charges

Five traffic citations and a resisting arrest charge were filed by Granite City police against Jeffery A. Singleton, 18, of 2307 Woodlawn Ave., at 12:50 a.m. Wednesday.

An officer reported seeing a vehicle traveling south at a high rate of speed on Madison Avenue, then turn west onto 28th Street and make another turn north onto State Street.

The pursuing officer said the vehicle nearly struck a parked auto at 29th and State before he managed to halt the driver in the 3000 block of State.

Before being placed in the squad car, Singleton reportedly pulled away from the officer, and once inside the vehicle repeatedly struck the protective shield between the front and rear seats.

Another policeman was called and it was decided to handcuff Singleton, but he allegedly refused to get out of the squad car and force was required to remove him, police said. While still at the scene, a Granite City resident who had witnessed the pursuit, arrived and reported Singleton's vehicle almost struck one of his children at 28th and State. Singleton was charged with reckless driving, resisting arrest, fleeing and attempting to elude a police officer and three stop sign violations.

Carpenters for Bakalis

The candidacy of Democratic gubernatorial candidate Michael J. Bakalis has received the endorsement of the state's 56,000 union carpenters, voting at their annual convention in Carbondale.

Bakalis also made public a letter from Bernard Puchalski, president of the Chicago District Council of Bridge, Structural and Ornamental Ironworkers, denying recent reports that his union had endorsed Governor Thompson in the Nov. 7 election.

Donald Gorman, president of the Illinois State Council of Carpenters, United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners, told a Carbondale news conference: "We've been trying to get the governor to give us answers to our questions concerning issues important to working people in Illinois. We have yet to receive an answer. Michael Bakalis has given us his answer, a strong 'yes' in support of labor."

Communications Service given data missions

The Air Force Communications Service (AFCS) here has assumed responsibility for the Air Force Data Automation Agency (AFDAA), headquartered at Gunter Air Force Station, Ala.

As part of an Air Force decision to realign department headquarters and staff in the national capital region, the Air Force will inactivate Headquarters, Air Force Data Automation Agency and realign its units under AFCS.

This realignment is expected to provide AFCS a unique capability to support worldwide automated data processing (ADP) activities for the Air Force.

AFCS also has the task of providing responsive ADP support for other governmental agencies as directed by the Air Force chief of staff and as specified in separate agreements authorized by the AFCS commander.

This realignment is in keeping with the Air Force's policy of enhancing centralized management of computer resources, reducing costs and keeping overhead expenses down by grouping similar operations and systems.

AFCS at Scott Air Force Base is a major air command with a worldwide mission of providing communications and air traffic control support for all Air Force organizations.

With the addition of over 2,100 personnel as a result of the realignment, AFCS currently has more than 49,500 assigned military and civilian personnel stationed at over 450 locations around the world.

AFDAA has had responsibility for centralized support functions, including acquisition, systems development, and computer evaluation.

In addition to the headquarters at Gunter AFS, other AFCS units are the Phase IV Program Management Office (PMO), the Data Systems Evaluation Office (DSEO) and the Air Force Data Systems Design Center (DSDC). The latter unit has detachments at Holloman AFB, N.M.; RAF Lakenheath, England; and Yokota AB, Japan.

Other AFCS units are the Air Force Data Services Center (AFDSC) in the Pentagon, the Federal Computer Performance Evaluation and Simulation Center (FPCESC) at Alexandria, Va., and the Air Force Computer Acquisition Office (AFCAO) at Hanscom AFB, Mass.

About 2,100 manpower positions in these units will be realigned by the command change, but no AFCS manpower positions will be relocated from any of the sites involved.

In a few cases, some positions will be functionally realigned into other organizations at the same installation. The three DSDC detachments are being deactivated and their positions assigned to other AFCS units at the same installation.

One key action in this alignment is establishment of the office of the deputy commander for data automation within the AFCS headquarters at Scott.

Using the existing AFCS

John P. Young dies at 82

John P. Young, 82, of 1312 Washington Ave., Madison, a retired steelworker, died at 1 a.m. Tuesday at the Calhoun Care Center in Hattiesburg.

Born in Shiloh, Ill., Mr. Young resided in the Quad-City area 80 years.

He retired in 1961 at Granite City Steel where he had been employed in the open hearth department.

Mr. Young was a member of St. Joseph Catholic Church. His wife, Mrs. Mae O. Young, died March 23, 1963.

Survivors include one daughter, Mrs. George (Dorothy) Vasiloff of Madison; a sister, Mrs. Mary Francis of Colorado Springs, Colo.; two grandchildren and six great-grandchildren.

Funeral services were held today. Details are given in the obituary column.

Faces 2 charges

While trying to disperse a large crowd at 19th and State streets at 1:55 a.m. Tuesday, officers saw a man standing near the open door of a squad car.

The man was placed inside the vehicle and allegedly began kicking at a window and shattered the glass on the right side of the car.

Booked on charges of criminal damage to property and disorderly conduct was John Allison, 36, of 2159 Benton St., who declined to say why he was near the squad car initially, police said.

Headquarters staff, this deputy commander for data automation. Prior to assuming this position at Scott, he served as chief of staff for the Electronics Systems Division of the Air Force Systems Command at Hanscom AFB, Mass.

Manpower resources of the AFCS Headquarters are being converted into new or strengthened operational capabilities for data automation units at Gunter. These positions will increase the status, responsibility and manpower of the DSEO, and permit establishment of an ADP Security Program office to provide an Air Force center of expertise for this program.

Further enhancement of other computer resource management programs will be possible with the realignment of former AFCS Headquarters positions to DSDC, Col. James says.

To further centralize Air Force ADP management, the existing AFCS Computer Programming Center (CCPC) at Tinker AFB, Okla., also will be aligned under Col. James. CCPC is regarded as a unique organization that provides ADP software development and operational support for Air Force automated telecommunications systems. There will be no manpower changes within CCPC.

Police are seeking a man who was seen throwing furniture from William Stack's apartment at 2207 Edison Ave., in an incident reported at 9:40 p.m. Monday.

Stack returned to the apartment to find the furniture smashed and several items in the front yard. Windows in the apartment also were broken.

A neighbor reported seeing a man throwing things outside the front door. He was described as

Centers aid sr. citizens

(Office of Lieutenant Governor Dave O'Neal)
Q. I understand that there is a toll-free number that any senior or disabled person may call and receive help with their problems. Can you tell me where the office is located and how it is staffed and operated?
A. The lieutenant governor is mandated by the legislature to be an advocate for seniors. As part of that responsibility, he has set up two Senior Citizens Centers. One is located in Chicago at 160 N. LaSalle St. and serves seniors and disabled persons in the city of Chicago and vicinity. The phone number is 312-793-3333. In Springfield, the center is located at 3 West Old Town Mall, with a toll-free line (1-800-252-6666) serving every part of the state. This enables senior citizens to call, without charge, asking for help with their problems. The lieutenant governor hires coordinators to operate the centers; each coordinator is responsible for supervising a staff, which consists of 50 percent volunteers, who are advocates for seniors and disabled persons. They have the background and expertise to counsel with all callers and walk-ins, regardless of the nature of the case. This enables them to know where and who to call, when necessary, in order to obtain for each caller the benefits or services needed to help them with their problems. These advocates must be knowledgeable in many fields in order to resolve sometimes complex problems and have a working knowledge of all resources available in the field of human relations.

Drug interactions a threat to patients

Miss Lucille C. Dutro, executive vice-president of the Central Illinois Chapter of the Arthritis Foundation, emphasized this week that drug interactions are a relatively new medical problem that is rapidly becoming a major and serious one.

of taking drugs that don't mix, can be avoided only if everyone involved — doctors and patients alike — become aware of how drugs affect one another in the complex environment of the body, she said.

A number of drugs can cause problems when taken together for arthritis and other conditions. Included are aspirin, the newer antiinflammatory medications, and anticoagulant and antidiabetic agents, it was explained.

As background, she said, the following tells what can happen inside the body. A fraction of a drug — and this includes many drugs — attaches itself in the blood to protein molecules, such as serum albumin. The portion of the drug "bound" in this way becomes inactive.

But then while the active portion of the drug is being used up or eliminated, the bound portion is gradually released from the protein.

It, too, then becomes active, fulfilling the purpose for which it was prescribed. This releasing process may take place in a matter of hours or days, but sometimes even months.

Binding, which controls the amount of drug available to the body at any time, is carefully taken into account when proper dosage levels of drugs are established by the manufacturer after testing.

There's no problem until a patient takes a second drug that also binds to protein.

The number of protein molecules in the blood to which drugs can bind is limited. Moreover, some have greater "affinity" — i.e., they bind more strongly — than others.

So, when the patient takes two different drugs, both of which bind to protein, the one with the greater affinity will use up the protein available for binding, thus displacing the one with lower affinity. The latter then becomes present in free form in the blood in larger amounts than intended.

In the case of certain drugs, notably the antidiabetics and anticoagulants, this can have serious consequences.

Patients who have too much of an antidiabetic agent may go into shock because blood sugar levels drop too low. Patients who have excessively high levels of anticoagulants in the blood may suffer from hemorrhage.

The problem of displacement is a general one, but Miss Dutro stressed the interactions that may occur in patients on antiarthritis medication.

Aspirin, a major therapeutic agent for arthritis victims, and the newer non-steroidal antiinflammatories, displace anticoagulants and antidiabetic agents from their protein binding places.

There also is another process that results in difficulties. Sometimes one drug leads another to be eliminated by the kidneys rapidly, causing the patient to have a lower blood level of the drug than had been anticipated.

This obviously poses a problem, and can be a reason for not prescribing aspirin together with some of the newer antiarthritis medications.

A special problem might occur in the use of gold (a metal), and the experimental antiarthritis agent called penicillamine. The latter removes metals from the body including gold. Special precautions may have to be taken when switching a patient from gold to penicillamine.

Additive effects and additive side-effects of drugs can also cause problems. Among well-known unfortunate drug combinations are tranquilizers and sleeping pills.

In particular, the arthritis patient must be concerned with the combination of large doses of aspirin — a central nervous system depressant — and alcohol, which has the same effect. Combining the two may impair a patient's responses.

Furthermore, aspirin and alcohol both irritate the stomach, and their concomitant use may increase gastric irritation.

Miss Dutro said she believes that drug interactions are "a price we have to pay for more effective drugs," and that with reasonable care most adverse drug reactions can be avoided.

The Foundation is urging that patients be cautious with self-medication, and tell their doctors of any and all medication — including over-the-counter drugs — they are taking. It may even be helpful to bring the drug to the doctor's office.

Better still, the patient should ask the doctor if it is all right before taking an additional drug the first time. For additional information, Quad-Cityans may write for a free booklet, "Arthritis — The Basic Facts" from the Arthritis Foundation, 320 E. Armstrong Ave., Peoria 61603.

Car lights Saturday for prisoners of war

The National Human Rights Committee for POW-MIA plans first-anniversary events tomorrow and Saturday.

A spokesman reported many Americans are voicing a "desire to have our men in Southeast Asia accounted for."

"The United States government is now spending $5 million of taxpayers' money on ten thousand tons of rice to be shipped to Laos to feed the Communists holding 547 of our missing servicemen, journalists and missionaries.

"This is despite the fact we have a trade embargo and despite President Carter's promise of no trade with Southeast Asia until we receive an accounting. In the fall, ten thousand tons of wheat were shipped to Vietnam, and now rice to Laos. When do we get our men in return?"

"The government will complete status changes within two months, which means they'll no longer require an accounting for these men, despite evidence presented of live POWs.

"Tomorrow July 7, is the committee's first anniversary. We will plant a 'tree of life' at the committee's address and then hold a motorcade with car lights on. This week is 'MIA Week.' The week contains Independence Day. We hope to regain freedom for these men.

"All Americans who desire the return of these loyal Americans — prisoners of war and missing in action — are asked to aid in the following ways: First, please drive with headlights on during the day on Saturday, July 8.

"Secondly, please flood the White House with letters, mailgrams, etc., demanding the independence of our men.

"Thirdly, write us at 86 Hill Street, Walden, N.Y. 12586 to become a card-carrying member and receive our monthly newsletter."

Bishop to meet parishioners

A meeting of the congregation of the Holy Trinity Bulgarian Orthodox Church of Madison will be held by the bishop of the diocese of Madison on Sunday, July 23, to set up a new church board which will serve until the next general parishioners' meeting in February 1979.

In a letter sent to all church members this week, Bishop Simeon said:

"I will be present and will preside with Father Peter Stamboldjiev at the divine liturgy which will be conducted in your church on July 23. The divine liturgy will start at 9:30 a.m. on that day.

"After the church services, I will conduct a meeting of the parishioners at which each of you will be given the opportunity to express yourself and to ask any questions relating to the problem which now exists.

"I have suspended all activities by the previous church board and have suspended some of the members of this board from any religious, spiritual, or secular activities of the church.

"At this meeting 12 church board members and six auditors will be elected to serve until the next general parishioners' meeting which will take place during the month of February in the year 1979.

"No meeting of the parishioners will take place on July 9, 1978. Any person or persons who attempt to conduct a parishioners' meeting on that date will be subject to sanction which I have the power and the authority to impose.

"You are therefore requested not to honor any notice which you might receive relating to such a parishioners' meeting for that date.

"We invoke upon you the blessing of Our Lord and remain yours before God most fervent intercessor."

The letter was signed by Bishop Simeon, administrator of the Akron diocese, and vicar of His Holiness Patriarch Maxim.

Women attack girl on W. 20th

A 16-year-old West Granite City girl walking on W. 20th Street near Bryan Avenue, at 3 p.m. Wednesday, was confronted by two women who struck her in the face, slashed the watch she was wearing and hurled her purse across the street.

The women alighted from a silver colored auto. The passenger accused her of hurting another woman and grabbed both her arms when she tried to turn away, the girl told police.

The passenger first struck her in the face, the girl said, and the driver of the car also hit her. One threw her purse across the street.

The passenger was described as five feet tall, weighing 110 pounds, dark hair, wearing blue shorts and a white T-shirt.

The second woman had blonde hair and was about five feet, four inches tall, weighing 115 pounds and wearing blue shorts. Both appeared to be in their late teens, the girl said.

The letter was signed by Bishop Simeon, administrator of the Akron diocese, and vicar of His Holiness Patriarch Maxim.

Fuel oil spilled on Braden Avenue

A considerable quantity of fuel oil was spilled on the road in the 4000 block of Braden Avenue at 10 a.m. Tuesday, creating a hazardous condition.

Large pools of oil were dispersed by Granite City firemen and street cleaners. Workers spread sand in the area.

K. P. Schwartzkopf of Olympia Oil Co. was pumping fuel oil at the Allmon Oil Co., 4000 Braden, when he saw the oil flowing from an overhead filter located on the platform.

The driver said the spring loaded type shutoff valve appeared to be tied to an open position and may have been done by vandals.

MISS JUDY EVANS who won top honors over the weekend in the essay portion of the Miss Illinois United Teenager Pageant held in Oakbrook, Ill. The essay was on the topic "My Country."

Wins essay honor at pageant

Miss Judy Evans, 15, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jess Evans, 3028 Ash Ave., won top honors in the essay portion of the Miss Illinois United Teenager Pageant held during the weekend in Oakbrook, Ill.

Miss Evans was one of 11 finalists in the essay category of competition.

Selected as Miss Illinois United Teenager was Miss Kimberly Foster of Tiskilwa, Ill.

For her essay, Miss Evans received a plaque and a $50 U.S. Savings Bond.

Following is the text of her essay on "My Country":

Rob Venice diner

Two youthful robbers, both armed with pistols, held up the McKinley Bridge at the foot of the Broadway overpass in Venice at 11:23 p.m. Wednesday and escaped with an estimated $350 to $200 in currency.

The robbers took the money from two employees of the diner and two customers, according to reports to Venice police.

Charles W. Sherry, owner of the restaurant, told police he arrived at the diner at the time the holdup men were coming out and passed him.

He said he went inside and saw the employees and two patrons standing in one spot and he asked, "What happened?"

When Sherry was told they had been robbed by the two men, he ran outside as the getaway car was driving off and fired one shot from his pistol at the car.

Police are interviewing the employees and the two customers to obtain a description and other information.

Bridge budget higher

The proposed 1978-79 budget for the McKinley Bridge at Venice will be $601,286, an increase of $52,354 over the $548,932 budget for 1977-78, Bridge Manager Tom Fields told the Venice City Council Wednesday night.

Fields told the aldermen that the budget proposed has been sent to Hardy and Hanover, bridge engineers in New York, for approval and when they return it the aldermen will each receive a copy for study.

Items realized were insurance from $160,000 to $170,000, 20 year raise each and cost of the new automatic toll system was set at $10,000.

"We have no control over items like insurance and the toll system and I feel we held the line well on all other items. If things keep going well, it is our hope that by 1980 we can start making bond payments," Fields said.

"Traffic remains good and the bridge is in sound condition. According to the engineers, we have what you would term cosmetic problems. The bridge needs painting and is somewhat rusty and more work needs to be done on the road bed. However, the bridge is solid and traffic is staying high in the vehicle count as more and more people find our bridge to be a convenient way to St. Louis," Fields said.

Trailer sinks into pavement

The right dolly stand of a large truck trailer, loaded with 63,000 pounds of wheat, sunk into the pavement causing damage to the street surface in the 1900 block of Spruce, near West 20th Street, last night.

Gary Hampton, Rural Route One, Box 121, Granite City, said he disconnected the tractor from the trailer about 7:45 p.m. Wednesday, intending to leave the trailer there overnight.

A few minutes later, the driver noticed the trailer leaning sharply to the right and the dolly sinking into the pavement.

Hampton notified police and his employer, Donald E. Hansen of Hamel, who arrived at the scene at 8:50 p.m. Attempts to raise the trailer failed and boards were placed beneath it for reinforcement.

Hansen said part of the load probably would be removed today before the trailer can be raised.

Suplt. of Streets Lionel Portell inspected the pavement damage last night.

Next stop: Detroit Regional

GRANITE CITY — A group of local boys will leave tonight for Detroit. No big deal, right?

Lots of people go to Detroit everyday. So what's so big about 18 kids from Granite City going there?

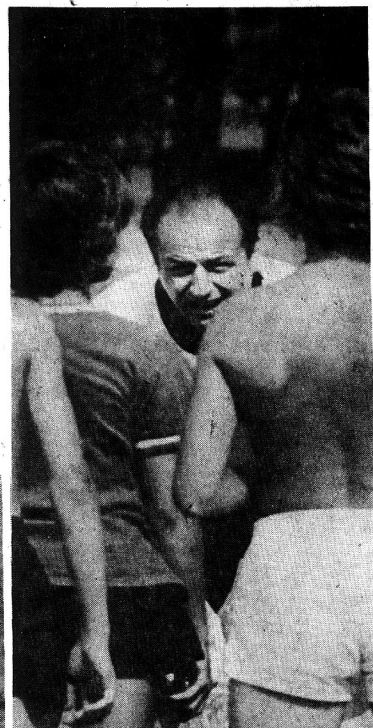

The group of boys is a team... a soccer team. A state champion soccer team.

Coached by Ruben Mendoza, the group, the 13-14 year old Illinois state champions, will play two games in Detroit Saturday and one Sunday to see which team wins the Detroit Regional title and earns a trip to the national finals later this summer.

It hasn't been easy, though. Mendoza puts his team through hard practices in order to ready them for the top-flight competition they'll face this weekend.

Anatomy of a no-hitter

GRANITE CITY — It didn't take long. About an hour-and-a-half. But it took a lot of effort. All kinds of effort.

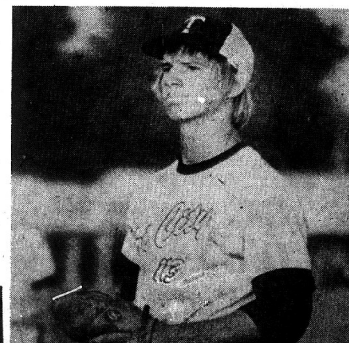

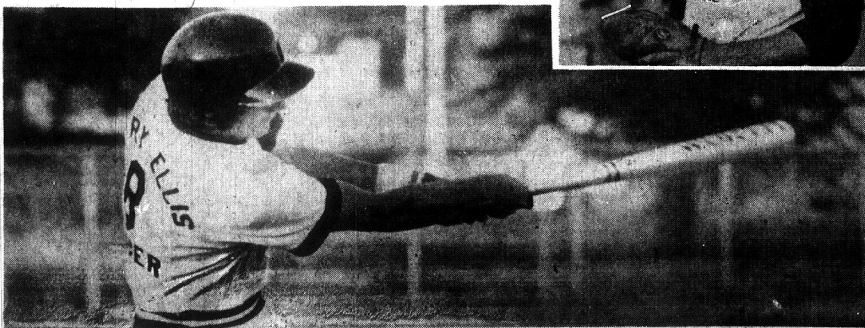

A no-hitter, of course, requires expertise on the part of the pitcher. But it takes the efforts of eight other members of the team behind him. That was the case last night when Tri-City Post 113's Jeff Tretter pitched a no-hit gem against Collinsville at South Field here.

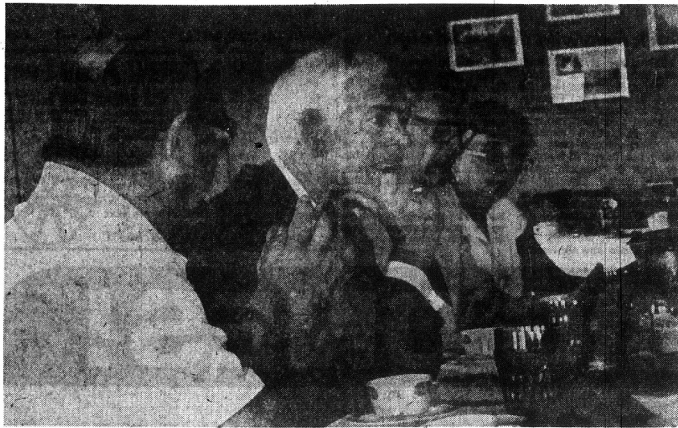

What was required, besides Tretter's effort on the mound, was almost perfect hitting and fielding by his teammates. He got it.

Except for one error (which had it not occurred would have robbed Tretter of his no-hitter in the first inning), his teammates played superbly. Dan Schaus made a clutch shoe-string catch of a fly ball to left field in the fourth and the Tri-City bats pounded out eight hits to give Tretter 11 runs to work with. That was more than enough.

CYSTIC FIBROSIS GOLF TOURNEY— Jack Buck, area sportscaster, along with several other celebrities, will participate in the Second Annual Cystic Fibrosis Celebrity Golf Tourney Monday at Sunset Hills Country Club near Edwardsville. (right) yesterday during the final meeting to set up the tourney. Starting time for the tourney is 12 noon. Celebrities to be at the event include golf pro Bob Goalby, along with Stan Musial, Jim Hart, Bob Player, Dan Dierdorf, Roger Wehrli, along with many other sports and media personalities. ### Chouteau lets fence contract

The Chouteau Town Board of Trustees gave its final approval to FHT Fencing Co. Monday night to install fences around the air conditioning units at the new town hall and community center building, after receiving written assurance from the company that it will comply with all Illinois Department of Labor guidelines.

The board had debated whether or not to hire FHT Fencing, since it is operated solely by its owners and does not have any union employees. It's bid, however, was about $150 lower than the only other bid the township received, and the trustees voted 2-1 to accept the bid if the company agrees to comply with Department of Labor prevailing wage rates, should any employees be used to install the fences.

The company is installing the fences on a contract totaling $379.

The board voted to allow the Johnson School Club Scout Troop to use the community center free of charge each Wednesday night through July and August for its meetings. A request for a CB radio club to use it for a benefit auction, however, was approved only if the club agrees to pay for all expenses incurred, including custodial and insurance costs. The auction is to benefit the March of Dimes.

News notes

National Steel Corporation Chairman George A. Stinson says that continued steel imports at the May 1978 level would create a "very critical problem" and "forge steelmakers to reach 'some rough decisions.' Others have joined in saying the Carter administration's "trigger price system" is failing to halt below-cost "dumping" of steel here by foreign producers.

Happy to be thought of as the "Howard Jarvis" of Illinois, James L. Tobin, 32, a Libertarian Party member, is assailing schools as the chief government spending problem. He alleges public schools in Illinois spend about $2,600 a year to educate a student, compared to $785 by some private high schools.

Home vandalized

Charlotte Daugherty, 2057 Fourteenth St., reported at 8:40 a.m. Wednesday a burglary at her mobile home, which also was vandalized. Entry may have been gained through a rear door, in which the top pane of glass was removed. Eggs were thrown on furniture in the living room and bedroom and canisters had been knocked over and their contents scattered on the floor. Fingerprint polish was spilled on the dresser in the bedroom. It was not determined if anything is missing.

Cohn cites gifts by attorneys to Judge Johnson's campaign

William E. "Bill" Johnson, Democratic nominee for circuit judge, is campaigning against accepting money from "special interests and lawyer groups," but also accepting such contributions, it was alleged this week by the Republican nominee, Gerald B. Cohn.

Cohn asserted, "In an article on Saturday, July 1, William Johnson claimed that he had never seen the financial statements filed by his campaign committee and didn't want to know who contributed to his campaign."

"This is not my policy or the policy of the Cohn for Judge Committee. Any funds received by the Cohn for Judge Committee are reviewed by me personally. If there is any impropriety or any appearance of impropriety which would in any way reflect upon the bench or possible performance of judicial duties, then the contribution is promptly refunded."

"All contributions to the Cohn for Judge Committee must be beyond reproach. This is in accord with Rule 61, subsection 22, Standards of Judicial Conduct. "It would appear that acceptance of contributions from attorneys or litigants who are practicing before Associate Judge Johnson or others, who are likely to have matters submitted to him for judgment, violates Rule 61, subsection 22, Standards of Judicial Conduct, Supreme Court Rules."

"It is not a defense that Johnson does not bother to look at his financial statements or that he doesn't want to know who the contributors are. "The contributions from attorneys as itemized in this Schedule A are not small contributions which can be characterized as occasional ticket sales, since it is pointed out in the article that the total reported is over $900. "It should also be noted that under part 4B, $6,282 is not itemized and I would challenge William Johnson to reveal the names of those contributors as well."

"It should be pointed out that I have reported all contributions, including those under $25, and would ask that my opponent do the same in order to avoid any appearance of impropriety."

"Judge Johnson made statements in his campaign against Circuit Judge Andreas Matosian that he would not take any money from lawyers. "He now states that he didn't want any chunks of money from attorneys, but as the campaign progressed there were a few attorneys at the fundraiser. This would lead the public to conclude that as soon as any lawyers offered to contribute money, that he readily took it. "A check of the court records will reveal that some of these law firms that contributed to Judge Johnson's campaign have appeared before him since the contributions."

"On March 15, 1978, the Committee to Elect Bill Johnson Circuit Judge placed an ad which stated, 'Why are special interest and lawyer groups spending money on my opponent? Because these groups know they cannot control me.' "A careful review of Judge Matosian's and Judge Johnson's campaign contribution reports indicates clearly that the special interest and lawyer groups were spending their money on Judge Johnson and not Judge Matosian," Cohn concluded.

Driver charged

After seeing the occupant of a vehicle throw a can at 5:25 a.m. Tuesday, police chased the car east on St. Clair Avenue, where the driver allegedly went through a stop sign at St. Clair and Edgewood Avenue.

Arrested on charges of disobeying a stop sign and illegal transportation of alcohol was Melvin J. Griffith, 24, of San Diego, Calif.

Seek men who damaged auto

Michael Murgic, 3905 Village Lane, and a friend were driving on Fehling Road, near Namecki Road, at 2:15 a.m. Tuesday, when a pickup truck came alongside and the occupants began yelling abusive remarks. A short distance away, the pickup got in front of Murgic's car, and a Plymouth sedan stalled behind, blocking the way. The truck was occupied by two men and the auto had three men and a woman inside.

The driver of the truck beat on the rear of Murgic's auto with a chain and the second man had a tire tool in his hand. Three men got out of the Plymouth, one carrying a tire tool, and made threats toward Murgic and his companion. They then left the scene.

Bill by Price on reporting foreign ownership of farms

U.S. Rep. Melvin Price (Dem., 23rd District), responding to growing concern over the extent of foreign investment in Illinois agricultural land, has co-sponsored legislation that would establish a national reporting system for nonresident alien owners of U.S. agricultural land.

Price said some estimates have placed at more than 12,000 acres the amount of land that has been acquired by foreign interests in Illinois over the past year.

Citing a recent Government Accounting Office report, however, Cong. Price said, "there is really no reliable data on the amount of U.S. farmland owned by nonresident aliens or on recent trends of such ownership."

"Foreign investors often come in and buy up land at inflated prices," Price said, "and they often exclude American buyers interested in farming the land themselves.

"With American farmers in the shape they are in today, we need this kind of reporting system."

Under the proposed plan, all foreign interests of U.S. farmland must be reported to the U.S. secretary of agriculture. Domestic corporations substantially controlled by foreign interests also would have to report their holdings.

The secretary, Price said, would be given authority to determine the nature and extent of foreign interests behind foreign corporations investing in farmland here as well.

In addition, the local congressman said that penalties of up to 25 percent of the fair market value of the unreported land would be assessed against those who evade the reporting requirement.

2nd Chamber music concert this evening

The second of a series of six summer chamber music concerts will be presented tonight at 8:15 in Meridian Ballroom of the University Center at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville.

Six musicians will perform in the program. Among them is violinist Louis Kellam, concertmaster of the St. Louis Philharmonic Orchestra.

Mrs. Kellam has performed at many colleges and universities and has appeared as soloist with several orchestras in the Midwest. In the St. Louis area, she has played with the Little Symphony, Municipal Opera, St. Louis Symphony and Gateway Orchestra.

When not on stage, Mrs. Kellam teaches violin, using both conventional and Suzuki methods. A St. Louis resident, she is a wife and mother of two children.

Other participants in the chamber series will include Marion Lampe, associate professor in the department of music at SIUE, and Linda Perry, assistant in the music department, both pianists.

Also performing are Kent Perry on the violin, Robert Schiever on the viola and Joseph Pival on the cello. They are associate professors in the music department.

Selections for this concert include "Sonata in D Major" by W. A. Mozart and "Impromptu, Opus 9, in G-flat Major" by Franz Schubert.

Darius Milhaud's "Scaramouche" and Johannes Brahms' "Quintet in F Minor, Opus 34" will also be performed.

Tickets for individual concerts are $1.50 for SIUE students with identification, $1.50 for senior citizens and $2 for others. The telephone number at the University Cultural Arts Office is 692-2996.

Mancini in first of Pops series on TV

As sure a sign of summer as baseball games and lemonade is a new season of Evening at Pops with the Boston Pops Orchestra and its conductor, Arthur Fiedler. The 1978 season 12-week run begins at 7 p.m. Sunday, July 9, on TV Channel 9, with the spotlight on Academy Award-winning composer-arranger Henry Mancini.

The series will also air at 1:30 p.m. Thursdays beginning July 13 and at 12 noon and 9 p.m. Saturdays beginning July 15.

The Pops' other July programs include a double-planning evening with jazz vibraphonist Lionel Hampton (July 16), a night with singer-guitarist Glen Campbell featuring the songs of Jimmy Webb (July 23) and a performance by Israeli violinist Itzhak Perlman (July 30).

In August, the schedule includes a Cole Porter evening with Tony Bennett; an evening with the Claude Kipnis Mime Theatre; a night of song, dance and mime with Ben Vereen; and a classical guitar concert by Angel Romero.

In September there will be a performance by classical and jazz flutist Jean-Pierre Rampal; a special appearance by soprano Clamma Dale; a program of tap dancing by Noel Parent; and a performance by Steven De Groote, winner of the 1977 Van Cliburn international quadrennial piano competition.

Each week, in addition to special performances by guest soloists, Arthur Fiedler and his world renowned Pops Orchestra present a popular blend of jazz, rock, soul, light classical and Broadway show tunes — all in the celebrated Pops style.

Evening at Pops is locally underwritten by Union Electric Co.

Ticks spread severe disease

By MARY RICHARDS
Illinois Department of Public Health

Ticks seem to be very numerous again this summer. In addition to being an annoyance, ticks can be carriers of Rocky Mountain Spotted Fever. More than 30 cases of this disease occurred in Illinois last year.

During 1976, just seven cases were reported in the state, and 14 cases occurred in each of the three previous years (1973, 1974 and 1975).

Since 1970, the yearly number of cases in the United States has been consistently increasing. The national yearly total rose from 380 in 1970 to 1,137 in 1977.

Rocky Mountain Spotted Fever is a severe disease that is transmitted to humans by a tick which has bitten an infected wild animal such as a jack rabbit, snowshoe rabbit, meadow mouse, pack rat or squirrel.

Symptoms, which usually develop three to 10 days after the bite of an infected tick, include fever, muscle aches and nausea.

Victims usually develop a rash on hands, feet, arms and legs about three days after the first symptoms begin.

Prompt medical attention is essential, and it is important that the patient tell the physician about any recent tick bites.

As with all health problems, prevention is the best idea. And the surest prevention of course, is to stay away from places that might be infested with ticks.

But, for those who plan to spend time this summer camping, fishing or hiking in the woods, the Illinois Department of Public Health has some tips on how to lessen the risk of contracting Rocky Mountain Spotted Fever.

If you are spending time in an area that might be tick-infested, wear tight clothing with long sleeves and trousers. Wear high boots, leggings or socks — and wear them outside your trouser legs. Also, don't forget to wear a head covering.

Another precaution is the liberal use of tick repellents. Any of the commonly available insect repellents which contain either diethyltoluamide or dimethylphthalate are effective against ticks.

You may not be able to pronounce these chemicals, but you will probably recognize them if you read the label.

But remember that repellents should be used in addition to — not instead of — protective clothing.

When in a tick-infested area, check your body and clothing several times each day for the presence of ticks. Children should be examined every three to four hours, especially around the scalp and back of the neck. Ticks seldom attach immediately, and rarely transfer infection until they have fed for several hours.

If you find a tick, remove it with a pair of tweezers or with a piece of paper held between your fingers. Either of these methods of removal is preferable to using a lighted cigarette or a hot match.

Do not squash the tick. If it is infected, this could spread the disease. The best way to dispose of a tick is to flush it down the toilet or burn it in the campfire.

After handling a tick, wash your hands thoroughly with soap and water. The wound itself should be cleaned with abundant amounts of soap and water.

Any of the common skin antiseptic solutions should then be applied to the tick wound.

Treat all tick bites this way, as there is no way to distinguish the bite of an infected tick from the bite of a non-infected one.

Many may be missing out on supplemental security income

There could be many people in this area who are missing out on much-needed cash income because they don't know about the Supplemental Security Income program, John Nathan, Social Security district manager in East St. Louis, said today.

SSI, administered by Social Security, makes monthly cash payments to people in financial need who are aged 65 or over, or blind, or disabled.

It makes no difference how old or young a person is to receive SSI payments because of blindness or disability, Nathan continued.

A person does not have to be destitute to receive SSI. An otherwise eligible person can own some property, have some other income and still receive payments. But there are limits to the amount of income and what can be owned, Nathan emphasized.

A person can have assets, what he or she owns, that count up to $2,250 for a couple, and still be eligible for SSI.

Not everything counts. The house the person lives in does not count as an asset, nor does an older car.

Personal effects do not count. What does count are items of value — bank or savings accounts, cash, jewelry, other real estate, antiques, large insurance policies (over $1,500) and similar items.

One of America's new musical groups, BRIDGE, will be in the area in concert at the skating rink pavilion at Wilson Park on Thursday, July 13, at 7 p.m.

BRIDGE consists of 15 young adults, all either in college or recent college graduates. They are a multi-talented group who exhibit some of the finest musical skills in the contemporary religious field today, a spokesman said.

The musically self-contained group of six vocalists and eight instrumentalists has been heard in many of the nation's largest churches, before college and high school audiences, civic organizations and in ticketed concerts throughout the country.

Bridge records on the Impact label, with the Benson Company of Nashville, one of the largest gospel recording and publishing companies in the world.

BRIDGE has been heard extensively on religious radio and television. The group also was seen on the NBC national network evening news in October 1977.

The group was created and is trained by Jim Van Hook, known in the gospel music world for his work as a creative publisher, writer, producer and director. Most musical arrangements are written specifically for Bridge by arranger-composer, Jerry Nelson.

The concert will present some of today's most significant gospel numbers, as well as rearranged "standards" of the church.

Study in state may help diabetics avoid blindness

The University of Illinois at the Medical Center, Chicago, is one of 22 research centers that will participate in a new nationwide clinical trial on early treatment of diabetic retinopathy, a common eye complication of diabetes and a leading cause of blindness in the United States.

The study will examine use of laser and drug therapy for treating patients with this eye condition.

Principal investigator for the project at the University of Illinois Medical Center campus is Felipe U. Huamonte, M.D., associate professor of clinical ophthalmology. Co-investigators are Morton F. Goldberg, M.D., professor and head of the Department of Ophthalmology, and Gholam A. Peyman, M.D., professor of ophthalmology.

Diabetic retinopathy is an eye disorder that causes harmful changes in the blood vessels of the retina, the light-sensitive tissue layer that lies at the back wall of the eye.

The blood vessels may become plugged, leak fluid or, in a latter stage, grow abnormally, which is called proliferative retinopathy.

Visual impairment can result when the abnormal blood vessels break and bleed into the vitreous body, the clear gel that fills the eye.

In severe cases, scar tissue also may form, cause the retina become detached from underlying tissue layers, and result in blindness.

According to Dr. Huamonte, diabetic retinopathy is the second leading cause of blindness in the United States.

"There are six million known diabetics in this country and about another four million with undiagnosed diabetes," he reports.

In general, persons who have had diabetes for 15 years will have a 50 percent risk of developing the retinopathy and those who have had the disease for more than 25 years will have a 90 percent chance."

An earlier nationwide diabetic retinopathy study, also supported by the National Eye Institute and started about 1972, demonstrated that photocoagulation (laser treatment) can reduce the risk of blindness in patients who are in the proliferative stage (growth of abnormal blood vessels) of the disease.

Photocoagulation uses light rays that are directed into the eye and focused in the retina to seal off abnormal retinal blood vessels that are very fragile. The treatment eliminates current or future sites of bleeding.

This earlier study "has shown that non-treated eyes have about a three times greater chance than treated eyes of developing severe loss of vision within two years," said Dr. Huamonte.

However, some patients became blind despite the laser treatment, and in others, harmful side effects of the treatment were noted — such as blurring of vision and narrowing of side vision.

The new study will seek to determine whether treatment at an earlier stage of retinopathy may be of greater value in reducing the risk of blindness and, if so, whether this benefit outweighs the risk of side effects.

In addition, investigators in the new study hope to discover whether laser treatment is effective against macular edema, an abnormal accumulation of fluid in the retina due to leaky blood vessels.

Macular edema frequently accompanies diabetic retinopathy and causes blurred central vision.

A third objective of the study will be to determine whether aspirin, alone or in combination with another drug, may be useful in treating diabetic retinopathy.

In diabetics, blood platelets have an increased tendency to clump. This tendency may affect the flow of blood through small vessels, such as those in the retina, and contribute to the development of retinopathy.

Because of aspirin's interference with the clumping of blood platelets, it may be an effective agent to prevent blockage of the retinal blood vessels in diabetic retinopathy.

Patient enrollment in the new study will begin following a planning stage of about one year. Dr. Huamonte estimates that 250 diabetic retinopathy patients with early stages of the disease will be recruited for this new study at the Medical Center campus.

Each patient will be followed for about five years to provide investigators with long-term information on risks and benefits of both laser and drug therapy treatments.

Telecast of women's gymnastics

Public television salutes the sport of Olga Korbut, Nadia Comaneci and other celebrated athletes with Women's Intercollegiate Invitational Gymnastics airing at 1 p.m. Sunday, July 9, on Channel 9.

Held on the University of Utah campus in Salt Lake City, this fast-paced event will mark the first time a gymnastics meet composed entirely of American women has been televised.

Three of America's top ranked teams, California State-Fullerton, Southwest Missouri State and the University of Utah, will participate in beam, vault, uneven bars and floor exercises in preparation for national intercollegiate gymnastics competition.

Commentary is by Cathy Rigby, 1970 World Games silver medalist and 1972 Olympic team member.

Contenders in the invitational display a variety of skills, styles and backgrounds. Carol Johnston arrived on the Cal State gymnastics scene last year and quickly captured a championship — despite the fact that she has only one arm.

Other prominent competitors include Utah's Diane Dunbar, member of the 1975 U.S. Pan American Games team; Diane Ellington, winner of the 1977 U.S. Gymnastics Federation's Junior Olympic national championship; and Southwest Missouri State's Kolleen Casey, who competed with the 1976 U.S. Olympic team in Montreal.

Governor outlines Lake Park progress

The Illinois Department of Conservation has acquired a total of 2,074 acres of land at a cost of approximately $3.5 million and has plans to acquire more land at a cost of about $1 million in the development of Horseshoe Lake Park, Gov. James R. Thompson said last week.

In addition, the governor said, the Conservation Department has cleared state-owned land and constructed site facilities at a cost of approximately $200,000 making portions of the east shore and Walker's Island available to public use.

Progress made by the state in development of the Lake Park project were outlined by the governor in a letter to Edwin F. J. Reiske, president of the Tri-City Trades and Labor Council, in response to an inquiry by Reiske concerning the potential labor and employment factors in the park project.

Gov. Thompson told Reiske that he had discussed the matter with Dr. David Kenney, director of the Conservation Department.

The governor's letter said: "Dr. Kenney informs me that we have accomplished the following regarding the Horseshoe Lake project:

"1. Acquired 2,074 acres (for approximately 3 1/2 million dollars).

"2. Cleared state-owned lands and constructed site facilities (for approximately a half million dollars) to make portions of the east shore and Walker's Island available for public use.

"3. Hired a site superintendent and initiated coordination to obtain 12 CETA employees through my Office of Manpower and Human Development at Edwardsville.

"4. Prepared an interim development plan to guide projected acquisition and development (estimated at an additional million dollars) during the next several years and to accomplish the following recreational programs:

"a. Bank and boat fishing.
"b. Boating (for sailboats, canoes, row boats, and low-power outboards).
"c. Hiking.
"d. Nature study and wildlife observation.
"e. Picnicking.
"f. Waterfowl and dove hunting.

"5. Initiated an interagency task force of local, state, and federal agencies to reconcile (during the interim development period) multiple use, e.g. storm water discharge and retention, industrial waste water discharge, sand and gravel extraction, and recreation fish and wildlife for Horseshoe Lake and to explore the potential of including—other funds and agencies in accomplishing a multi-purpose project.

"6. Initiated several research projects, principally with the State Water Survey, to gather and analyze data (regarding lake hydrology, water quality, sedimentation, and long range management and development plans can be based.

"7. Therefore, even though project completion is still in the future, we are making progress in providing recreational use, and we do anticipate a modest impact to the unemployment situation in your area as we acquire staff and further develop the project.

"Dr. Kenney and I realize the potential of Horseshoe Lake and are happy to be instrumental in developing it. Please be assured that your interests are acknowledged and that we will continue to explore all means and funds to realize a multi-purpose project."

"I am confident that the progress made by the state in development of the Lake Park project will be a benefit to the area and to the state as a whole."

Multiflora rose control

By RON CORNWELL
County Farm Adviser

Multiflora rose is a perennial shrub that reproduces by seed and sometimes by rooting at the cane tips when they touch the ground.

At one time, multiflora was planted for wildlife cover in many areas. What started out as a beneficial plant in one situation has become a real problem for most farmers.

Multiflora rose seed is spread easily by birds.

The plant is very hardy and, once established, is hard to control. It is a real problem in pastures where it has become established.

The herbicide to use in controlling multiflora rose depends on the site.

In pastures, 2,4-D plus 2,4,5-T

(brush killer) can be used unless there is a waterway. In that case, 2,4-D plus Silvex should be used.

Tordon, Krentite or Roundup can be used on land not planted in row crops. Tordon can be applied as a foliar treatment or as basal granules.

Tordon 10K is not cleared for use in Illinois. The other materials are used as a foliar treatment.
